The Mint Master

December 2014

Volume 61, Issue 12

Presidents Message

This past month we held our meeting at the Garden Club in Sugar House where we elected officers for the next term and had a bourse night. For those who missed the meeting, you were missed. We had an enjoyable evening in a lovely facility and we are grateful for the Garden Club for allowing our usage of their facility.

For December we shall be meeting in our regular location at the Columbus Community Center where Christmas dinner will be served at 6:30pm, please come early as we have a busy night scheduled. Catering will be by 'Catering by Bryce' and we will be having two entree choices, Pork or Chicken along with vegetables, rolls, and a variety of deserts, cost is $18 per member and you can pay at the door if you haven't done so yet.

If you plan on coming, or bringing guests or family with you, please contact Eldon Farnsworth with the number of attendees so that we can inform the caterer so they can plan for the correct number of plates for the dinner. You may also contact myself or Doug Nyholm and we can get that number to Eldon. Please let us know if you plan on coming by the 5th of December. If you have previously indicated to Eldon at our November meeting you are included in the number of attendees and do not need to let us know again.

If you missed our November meeting make sure you check the election results in this Mint Master. We would like to express our gratitude to those who have served us this past term and their willingness to volunteer and assist in club duties and responsibilities. We would also like to express deep appreciation to those outgoing members for their outstanding service over the past couple of years.

We are looking forward to everyone being able to attend our Christmas Dinner and shall see you there on the 9th of December. Until then God Bless!

Sincerely,

Robie Cagle / UNS President

What's Going On In December

Feature Story - Designated Strike Features

There are several series of coins issued in the 20th century that are collected by unique features. Some are more popular than others but all those listed above have a significant following and they are listed by separate prices in many price guides. These issues are for the most part only collected by examples in Mint State but as with anything there is an exception. Liberty Standing quarters with 'Full Head' details are also identified both by PCGS and NGC in AU condition and as such command a premium price in comparison to their non-full-head counterparts. Other frequently encountered special strike series's are Full Bell Line Franklin halves and Full Split Bands Mercury dimes both of which are eagerly collected by their strike details. Following are Full-Step Jefferson nickels which have been around for quite some time but are slightly more obscure. There are those which are identified as having 5 steps and also a 6 step strike is marketed. A full step collection of Jefferson Nickels is virtually impossible to obtain and surprisingly several of the later issues are some of the rarest as many issues in the early 1960's were struck so poorly that literally thousands of examples must be searched to find that full step strike. Reverting back to the Franklin halves, the 1953-S with FBL is a major strike rarity with gem examples having surpassed the $35,000.00 price level several times. Finally another strike rarity is the 1945 FSB Mercury dime, most collectors have never even seen one. These two special strikes rarely appear at major auctions but when they do both are usually highlighted. The frequency of these coins appearing for sale can span a year or two between auction occurrences and are always grabbed up by specialized collectors. PCGS is so stringent in giving a 1953-S Franklin the FBL designation that examples which appeared to meet the criteria but have a bag scratch or nick bisecting the lines that they have declined to assign the coin a FBL designation. Then there is the, in my opinion, the lowly Roosevelt Dime with the 'Full Torch' designation. Yes this is an actual designation but on the examples I have observed I definitely have a hard time determining what they call Full Torch and those that are not. In any event these dimes are definitely the low rung on the collectors interest in special strikes but they are collected. What do you collect? Doug Nyholm

Counterfeit 1880 Nickel Images

Counterfeit Corner - 1880 Shield Nickel

The 1880 Shield nickel is a significant rarity. The mintage is only 16,000 and it is a major rarity in uncirculated condition nearing the $100,000 mark in gem as only scant a few are known. This puts pressure on lower graded coins as most collectors cannot afford such rarefied prices. The coin pictured was reported to NGC and is thought to be a Chinese manufactured example. As many circulated coins display various scuffs, slight damage and definite circulation wear it may be possible to overlook some of the diagnostics on this counterfeit. The most glaring diagnostic is the ball above the date which has damage to the lower portion and is no longer circular. Also the date is miss-shapen and when compared to a genuine piece jumps out as a fake to anyone familiar with a real example. There are other minor problems with this coin but knowing these two simple diagnostics anyone should be able to pass on this coin if offered to you.

One additional thing going for the counterfeiter is that this is a rarely encountered coin and the Shield nickel series is not known for numerous counterfeits. If indeed it is of Chinese origin or as well as any other manufacturer just remember that virtually every date of every denomination in every series of U.S. coin has been counterfeited. If you are on the hunt for this rare coin as with any coin, do your homework and due diligence first. Know the characteristics of the coin(s) you are searching for and remember always, that if the price seems to good to be true, take extra caution.

December Book Releases

Book Review—Christmas Book's

The 3rd & 4th volumes of 'Obsolete Notes' authored by Q. David Bowers will be available this December. These volumes are the second installment of books to be released covering obsolete currency issued by various states and banks from 1782 to 1866. Bowers notes that over 3,000 state-chartered banks issued their own currency with many issuing dozens of different types. There are well over 10,000 different types of notes which have survived and this series of books plans to cover as many as possible. Be prepared to clear some space on your bookshelf as the first volume was an introduction into these notes while volume two covered Vermont, New Hampshire, and Maine. Volumes three and four exclusively cover on the state of Massachusetts and contain a total of 928 pages. The set, when complete should contain well over a dozen volumes. As in the writing style of Bowers, not only is data covered regarding the individual notes but a history of each individual bank is included.

Coin World, in a recent press release indicated that these books would be available on December 1st, however when placing my order at www.whitman.com they indicated that they would ship on Dec. 21st. Price is $69.95 each but the pre-publication price is only $99.99 for the pair which includes free shipping.

As I write this book review I have obviously not received my books yet but I am sure they will follow the format previously reported for volume two. These books would make a wonderful Christmas gift for anyone who collects currency.

The other books shown above is the long awaited 2-volume set covering Flying Eagle and Indian Head Cents from one of the most renowned experts in this field, Rick Snow. It was originally offered at a pre-publication price and has now been advertised for anyone to purchase. The price is $250 directly from the author. This 2-volume set also contains almost 1,000 pages, full color and hardbound. Another possible Christmas gift.

Editors Message

As we wrap up a new year I would like to give my thanks to all of those who support the UNS. Additionally this publication would not be possible without those of you who contribute and assist me in making the Mint Master a reality.

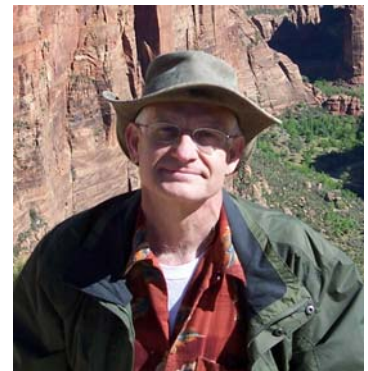

This past year saw a significant expansion to the Mint Master including advertisers who paid a fee to have their ads reach additional collectors. These fees are generally used to support the UNS but more importantly are a great boost to our Young Numismatist program. Our annual YN meeting is one of the most well attended of the year as well as our picnic which sponsors additional activities aimed at this future generation of collectors.

We have a new president beginning next year as well as several returning officers and board members who are dedicated to making the Utah Numismatic Society one of the finest local clubs in the country.

As before, I ask all of you who enjoy and benefit from our club activities to invite your friends and acquaintances to accompany you to one or more of our meetings this year. We will be having our planning meeting early in January and will be looking for new and fresh ideas to enhance our meetings and be able to cover subjects which are of interest to the entire membership. If any of you have ideas or suggestions please don't keep them to yourselves, let your new President or any officer or board member know. We are here to serve you.

Finally, I also urge you to contribute something to the Mint Master. This can be anything from a significant article about an interest of yours, a brief note regarding a recent experience or a story about that special coin or collection you have acquired.

Also, I want to wish all of you a very Merry Christmas, Happy Holidays, Wonderful New Year in whatever way you celebrate this time of year. The UNS is a great club and each and ever one of you are responsible for our success.

Doug Nyholm

Newsflash - No More Coins ?

Denmark is one step closer to becoming the first modern cashless society. The Nationalbanken or Danish central bank announced on Oct. 21 that it will stop printing bank notes and likely issuing coins by the end of 2016. Denmark is moving to stop minting coins and producing bank notes. The decision is partially a money saving move, but is also partially based on a domestic economy that has increasingly in recent years moved from using cash to using various forms of electronic transfers for financial transactions.

Coin Collecting Illegal? / Shades of 1964

Coin collectors living in the Philippines could become an endangered species once Philippines House of Representatives Bill Number 4411 becomes law. A law introduced in the Philippines seeks to ban owning coins there. The House bill introduced in May is titled "An Act Penalizing the Hoarding of Legal Tender Coins of the Philippine Currency." Chronic coin shortages in the Philippines have been blamed on the public for years. Now the House of Representatives is contemplating legislation that could result in anyone found guilty of this dastardly crime being fined as much as 300,000 pesos (about $6,675.00 U.S.) and sentenced to a maximum of eight years in prison

Prizes & Buy of The Month

The prizes for our Christmas dinner party are too numerous to list here. But be assured that this will be by far the largest group of prizes of the year.

If you have gone above and beyond the call of duty in supporting the UNS during 2014 such as helping at our shows you will receive additional tickets. But be sure that everyone in attendance will go home with something in addition to enjoying a great meal.

There will be no 'Buy of the Month' which will return for our January meeting. Don't miss this event.

Young Numismatists - CHRISTMAS GIFT LIST IDEAS FOR THE NUMISMATIST

Whether you are a numismatist or collector of 7 or 70, this time of year always gives rise to Christmas wish lists. Most, if not all collectors and numismatists, have a list of items they need or want as they continue their numismatic journey and the Christmas season is a perfect time to satisfy some of those wish list requirements. Whether your wish list includes collectible items, books, supplies, or annual subscriptions to your favorite numismatic periodicals, there are local dealers and internet based sources available to satisfy your wish list requirements. If your wish list is large and you can't decide what you want the most, maybe a note to Santa telling him that cash or a gift card would be preferred so you can make the choice. This may be the best choice if you intend on filling a collectible need or want.

COLLECTIBLES:

If your goal is to satisfy a collection need, you are lucky that we have several great local dealers with excellent inventories. Most of these dealers have ads in this Mint Master and are strong supporters of our club. For modern U.S. coins and medals, the U.S. Mint is available on the internet at catalog.usmint.gov. Also on the internet, you have access to EBAY as a source if local dealers or the Mint don't have what you are looking for. In this collectibles area, I firmly believe that only the collector should make decisions about the composition their collection.

BOOKS:

On many occasions, I have stated that knowledge is king and books are one of the best sources of information to make us successful numismatists. Every numismatist needs a basic reference library and for the more advanced collectors, books which provide in-depth detailed information to support specialty collection efforts. Local dealers, EBAY, AmosAdvantage.com, or wizardcoinsupply.com are all good sources for building or upgrading a reference library. If you're not sure which books you need; any of our local dealers or older members of the UNS, especially Doug Nyholm, can help steer you in the right direction

SUPPLIES:

Over the last few months, we have spent a lot of time in discussion of grading collectibles and their protection, storage, and safeguarding. As part of those discussions, we have identified several items which we need to perform the various required activities easily, comfortably, effectively and consistently. Whether we are looking at lamps, magnifying glasses, coin holders, albums, storage boxes, coin roll tubes, etc., etc.; supplies and tools need to be readily available when we need them, not after the fact. A little preplanning will make our efforts more productive and successful. If supplies or tools are your wish list focus this year, the same sources as listed for books can help make your wish a reality.

SUBSCRIPTIONS:

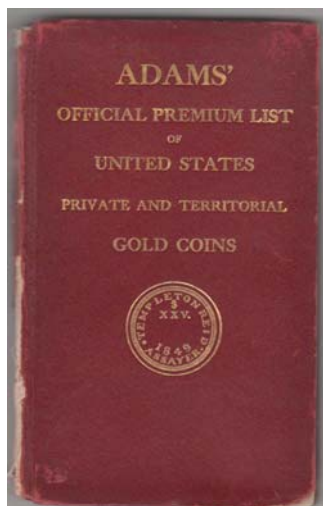

Staying up to speed about current and future events in the numismatic arena should be an important aspect of your numismatic journey. And, what better way to stay informed than with a steady flow of information provided by one of the many numismatic periodicals currently available. Some of those include: Bank Note Reporter, Coins Magazine, Coin Market eXpress, Coin World, Numismatic News, Paper Money Market, and World Coin News. All are available in both digital and print format.

MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL.

One of my want list items is some feedback from you about what you would like to see in future articles in this column. I really enjoy preparing this column each month, but I want it to be useful to you.

Adams' Official Premium List of United States Private and Territorial Gold Coins (1909)

Shown below are the pages discussing and pricing Mormon Gold Coins from Adams' book circa 1909. The 1860 $5 coin (not shown) was listed at $60 in Uncirculated condition with one in Fine condition at $40. Don't you wish you had a time machine.

Antique Coin Advertisement

U. S., PRIVATE, TERRITORIAL GOLD COINS 61

UTAH

Salt Lake City.

Very little metallic currency passed among the Mormons in 1849, gold dust being the only circulating medium, and the Latter Day Saints made arrangements to strike gold coins bearing their own stamp from the great quantities of gold that had come from California. Apparatus necessary for coinage was constructed by residents of the Mormon capital, the mint being located on South Temple Street. Thomas Bullock was the director. In the cellar the gold dust and nuggets were refined, while on the first floor was placed the primitive coining press. John Kay was the first coiner. The designs of the gold pieces of 1849, of the denomination of $2.50, $5, $10, and $20, were very much alike, the dies being engraved by a local dentist, James M. Barlow. Previous to this it is said an attempt had been made to strike gold coins from dies engraved by Robert Campbell, which were broken. It is not known whether any of the coins of this earlier pattern are in existence. The intrinsic value of the $20 pieces ranged from $16 to $18. The fineness of the gold varied from .899 to .900, but the weight was about 85 grains less than that of the United States double eagle, ranging from 436 to 453 grains. This Mormon double eagle was the first coin of the denomination to be issued in the United States, and presumably first made its appearance about May, 1849. Cary Peebles, a California pioneer, states that he sold goods to the Mormons in May, 1849, and received in return $4,000 worth of new Mormon coins, the first issued at the Salt Lake City Mint, as he stood by and watched the coins being made. The ten-dollar piece averaged in weight from 219 to 224 grains, with an intrinsic value between $8.50 and $8.70. The five-dollar piece of 1849 weighed 111 grains, of an intrinsic value of about $4.30, and the $2.50 piece, of a weight of 58 grains, had a value of $2.25. All of the Mormon coins had plain edges. In 1850 a new design for a five-dollar piece was executed. This was similar to the same denomination of 1849, but showed a circle of nine stars around a somewhat different eye and mitre. No more coins were issued bearing the Mormon stamp until 1860, when a new variety of five-dollar piece of original design was issued. A mint assay of this specimen showed it to weigh 116 grains, with a fineness of .874, the intrinsic value being $4.40. This was the last coin to be issued at the Mormon mint.

An Amazing Error Coin - 1905 Gold Indian Head Cent

The above pictured gold Indian Head cent is scheduled for auction at Heritage. I wrote a brief article about gold Indian Cents in my book 'Illegal Coins' which was included because it is a coin which truly has a story.

But what do we know about the origin of this coin and the several other examples known? Certainly, not much, and what is known and written is for the most part speculation. One theory regarding their origin is that they were struck clandestinely for special purposes. This certainly could be the case, somewhat similar to the 1913 Liberty Head nickel. This theory does bring up the argument that why are several different dates known? The obvious other theory is that they truly are mint errors. After all, when striking coins by the thousands on the mint floor why couldn't a gold planchet become mixed in a group of bright new shiny copper planchets? They are somewhat similar in color and I can see how the possibility could exist. All known specimens are however virtually new, an AU example being the most worn. I remember a few years ago at Heritage handling an 1834 silver quarter eagle which was struck on a dime planchet. The discoverer of this well worn piece actually found it in a bag of junk silver coins. Wow, what a find. These very interesting 'off metal' errors are the epitome of such errors but even silver 1965 dimes, quarters, and half dollars exist so mistakes do happen. In any event I consider this coin one of the coolest errors in existence. Its hammer price will tell a lot.

The 1974 Aluminum Lincoln Cent and the famous 1943 copper cent are two of the most well-known off-metal strikes.
